

Building & Observing the Human Figure with Kevin McEvoy

Saturdays 10am-1pm | January 29 - March 5

This workshop is a drawing course designed to fuse together both the ability to construct the human figure from knowledge of anatomy, and to observe the figure through the training of the eye.

Drawing from extensive anatomical texts, and working with the model, this course will deepen all artist's understanding of human form, and how to depict it in their own work. This course is not designed to introduce a style, per se, but rather, equips the students to incorporate the human figure in their work, as they desire.

Students ages 15-17 must receive written permission from parent/guardian prior to class start date to attend these live model drawing sessions.
