	Unit 1	Unit 2	Unit 3	Unit 4
Title	Exploring Perspective	Confronting Societal Conflict	Understanding How the Individual Voice Can Impact Both the World and Oneself.	Understanding Character Development through Conflict
End of Unit Performance Task(s)	Narrative As people grow, their points-of-view change. Students will write a first-person narrative about a “life-changing” moment.	Literary Essay Using the texts, write an essay explaining how authors use their writing to express criticism of society in an effort to make a positive change.	Nonfiction, Research Oriented Paper Students will research a contribution by an underrepresented person. Students will synthesize information from a variety of sources in MLA format, demonstrating their understanding of the contribution and its impact on society.	Argument Formulate an argument about how children mature. Did the character’s choices have a positive or negative influence? Support your claims with relevant evidence from the text and include both sides of the argument.
Essential Questions/Essential Understandings	Thematic Essential Question What does it mean to face challenges fearlessly, and what character traits must one possess in order to overcome challenges? Thematic Understandings: Students will understand that: - By examining different cultures, readers gain a greater understanding of the world in which they live. Reading and Writing Understandings Students will understand that: -Close reading includes multiple readings of a text. -Annotation promotes better comprehension by increasing engagement with the text. -Conflict and tragedy are common topics of fiction and nonfiction. -Conflict is essential for story development; without it plot, character development, and theme are lacking. -Character and conflict develop the theme in a story. -People learn from historic or fictionalized conflicts and tragedies, expanding their own wisdom and understanding of the world (This is largely why we study literature, history, and current events).	Thematic Essential Question How do authors use their writing to comment on society? Thematic Understandings: Students will understand that: -A writer’s perspective on his/her society is informed by his/her personal life experiences. -Some writers use their writing to express their criticisms of society. -Writers gave voice to social plight and sought to reform the wrongs of society through their words. Reading and Writing Understandings: Students will understand that: -The structure of a literary piece can help express the meaning of it. -Like other forms of fiction, plays rely on character and conflict to convey theme/s. -A poet uses poetic devices to form and convey meaning. -Word choice is of paramount importance in poetry, because poets need to say a great deal with few words. -Poets must give careful consideration to the words they select for their poems, and readers of poetry must give careful consideration to each word they read in a	Thematic Essential Question How can people make a difference in the world? Thematic Understandings: Students will understand that: -Speaking out against injustice may come with both great personal loss/sacrifice and personal rewards. -Speaking truth to power means taking a stand against those who are powerful in a nonviolent/peaceful way. -It takes great bravery to speak out against those in power. -Children can have a big impact on the world in which they live; their voices can also be powerful. -Individuals can have an impact on the world no matter how small the contribution. Every voice counts. -Education is the key to power and the prevention of violence. -The impact of education on a society. Reading and Writing Understandings: Students will understand that: -Memoirs can be both narrative and tell a story, but also be a primary source for historical events. -Students can use multiple sources from multiple genres to learn about the world around them and historical events.	Thematic Essential Question How does conflict shape or promote character development? Thematic Understandings: Students will understand that: -Bildungsroman is a literary genre that focuses on the psychological and moral growth of the protagonist from youth to adulthood. -Achieving maturity can be a difficult and challenging journey. -Dynamic characters transform from the beginning of the novel to the end. -Dialect serves an important purpose: it conveys the character's attitude, education, and society. -The author's purpose is to help students today appreciate the struggles their forefathers endured. Reading and Writing Understandings: -In coming-of-age novels, a character is often pushed to develop through the conflicts he or she faces. -Character and conflict are crucial to the development of a theme in a coming-of-age novel. -The formation of a strong argument requires many things: a strong, clear thesis, relevant context, relevant and
